

GERMAN DEFENSES IN SAAR BASIN COLLAPSE

The War Today..

By DeWitt MacKenzie

ONE OF THE most significant news dispatches to come out of the Allied Rhine front is a three-sentence item saying that German civilians are evacuating their homes in the Duisburg sector to make room for Lt. Gen. Simpson's Ninth U. S. army to cross the Rhine.

That's about all, excepting that they are "taking their immediate personal effects on wagons, bicycles, pushcarts, over-flowing baby carriages and on their backs." Our map tells us that this sector on the west bank of the Rhine is just across from the Ruhr—heart of Hitler's war industries—and lies opposite Essen, where the famous Krupp armament works are situated.

Thus without sensational headline we are given a hot tip that the operations on the Western front are moving rapidly towards the climax which will precipitate further Allied crossings of the Rhine. One can well believe that the position of our Remagen bridgehead has speeded preparations for the amphibious attacks further north.

We have a large and well equipped force across the river, and it is expanding its holding well, but obviously it can't be left to fight a little war of its own to the east of the Rhine. This is especially true now that the big steel railway bridge has collapsed, depriving us of invaluable means of transporting heavy equipment to the bridgehead.

Naturally the difficult and dangerous amphibious crossing of the Rhine requires careful and extensive preparations, and we only recently have come up against the river solidly on our northern flank where the operations are projected. There are other considerations.

It has been necessary to get further ahead with clearing the enemy out of the strongly held Saar and palatinate areas west of the Rhine on our right wing. Had we surged across the river on the north, leaving these strong German forces on our flank, it could have spelled a lot of trouble.

GEN. PATTON'S Third army and Gen. George S. Patton's Seventh are doing a magnificent job of smashing the Hitlerite army in that great sector. In many areas the Nazis are in a state of rout and are suffering heavy casualties under the rain of death which is being poured from the skies by a huge fleet of warplanes.

Another difficulty the Allies have encountered on the northern end of their front has been the mud and floods caused by early thaws.

3 COUNTRY CLUB DIRECTORS NAMED

E. M. Stephenson, Carl Howell and Dr. G. A. Roove were named directors of the Salem Country club for the new fiscal year at the annual meeting of the stockholders at the High school building last night.

They succeed H. F. Wyckoff, Charles O. Snyder and S. C. Chessman. Carl Willman is president of the club until a new executive is named at a meeting of the directors early in April.

Reports from various club committees were heard last night.

Pals Reunited

Ten thousand miles can't separate a man from his best friend—so Sgt. Edgar C. Godard, of Huntington, Pa., and "Blackie," nondescript dog he acquired in Abadan, Persia, six months ago, are reunited. Godard was returned to Bowman Field, Ky., on a rotation plan. Immigration officials frowned on his dog following. Appeal to his congressman, unidentified, resulted in "Blackie" taking a 10,000-mile ride on a Liberty ship. Here they are reunited.

CANTON MAN DIES AFTER CAR UPSETS

Fractured Skull Is Fatal To Harry Thompson, 34, A Hitch-Hiker

Harry Thompson, 34, of Canton, died in Salem City hospital at 3:10 a. m. today from a fractured skull suffered in a Route 30 traffic accident on Saturday night.

The victim was riding in a car driven by William E. Graves, 39, of Shaker Heights, who told state patrolmen that he lost control of the machine three miles west of Lisbon and the vehicle overturned on the right side of the road.

Thompson had "thumbed" a ride in Graves' car enroute to Canton, patrolmen learned.

Graves, who also was injured, is reported in satisfactory condition at the hospital today.

Details regarding the Canton man's family were not available today, but Coroner E. R. Sturgis said the body would be taken to the Jack funeral home in Canton today. He was believed to have been employed at the Goodyear Aircraft Corp., Akron.

The coroner ruled accidental death.

Pfc. Jack Thompson Killed In Germany

Previously reported missing Pfc. Jack W. Thompson, 21, an infantryman, was killed in action Feb. 25, in Germany, the War department advised his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Thompson, of Salineville.

Pfc. Thompson, who went overseas last April, was a potter in Salem, before his induction Oct. 1, 1943.

Besides his parents, he is survived by two brothers, Corp. Robert Thompson, in France, and Kenneth Thompson, at home.

Another infantryman, Pfc. Carl Morris, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Morris, of Signal, was wounded Feb. 21, in Italy. A brother, Pvt. John F. Morris, 26, was wounded Nov. 20, in France.

Business Bureau Holds Postwar Plans Discussion

A discussion of the post-war employment and industrial prospects, led by G. R. Deming, county chairman and H. W. Cameron, county executive chairman of the Committee For Economic Development, featured a meeting of the Salem Business bureau yesterday noon.

R. S. McCulloch, chairman of the CED in Salem, spoke briefly outlining the planned program here. Cameron showed pictures of the working of the committees elsewhere and explained the county setup.

REPORT U. S. PLANES OVER JAPAN AGAIN

Admiral Mitscher Sends Attackers Out Third Consecutive Day

(By Associated Press)
U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Guam, March 20.—Vice Adm. Marc A. Mitscher's mighty carrier force was reported bombing Japan today—a third straight day—defying the Imperial fleet to come out for battle and giving the lie to enemy claims that seven of Mitscher's ships were sunk and one damaged.

Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced that carrier pilots moved northward Monday to loose bombs and rockets against shipbuilding and a major naval base, Kure, on the home island of Honshu. Sunday, carrier planes dropped probably 2500 tons of bombs upon Kyushu and Shikoku, industrially-vital island.

"Enemy attacks are continuing," Tokyo radio said today. The announcer did not state whether the raid was on Honshu or Kyushu.

(The Tokyo broadcast saying the U. S. attacks were still continuing was picked up in San Francisco by the NBC.)

Task Force Raiders

Tokyo identified the raiders as "the mainstay of task force 58—the carrier force which leaped into fame last June by destroying 405 Japanese warships on one day, then sinking or damaging 17 Japanese warships the next."

The enemy radio said the force comprised five groups of ships, including 15 carriers, and was about 300 miles south of Shikoku when first sighted Sunday. It added that Japanese fliers were continuing attacks against the U. S. fleet. Japanese communiques claimed, without confirmation, that 183 carrier aircraft were shot down. Unofficial Tokyo broadcasts admitted the loss of at least 20 Nipponese planes.

If Mitscher is continuing his attack, the tonnage of incendiary and explosive bombs and rockets fired at the empire in three days would exceed 7,000 tons.

Kobe still was smoldering from Saturday's incendiary raid by 300 Superforts when the carrier planes struck. One of Japan's most congested cities, Kobe is an important iron, steel and ordinance center as well as major shipbuilding city.

Pfc. Marks of Lisbon Is Killed In France

LISBON, March 20.—Pfc. Luther P. Marks, 19, an infantryman, was killed in action in France on Feb. 11, 1945.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Marks of nearby Jordantown, he had been missing in action since Feb. 11.

Pfc. Marks had been in the service since Feb. 23, 1944, and had been assigned to overseas duty in November of that year. He attended the Lisbon schools and was well-known here.

Surviving are his parents, one brother, Robert of Canton, and four sisters, Jean and Annabelle, at home, Patricia of Miami, Fla., and Mrs. Mildred Devan of Alliance.

Prospect PTA Discusses Postwar Peace Education

A general discussion of "How to Educate Our Children to Peace" featured the meeting of the Prospect school Parent-Teacher association last night.

Members held a general round table discussion on the methods and plans to be carried out to educate American children to peace.

Mrs. Edgar Hunter was leader. Mrs. Sullie, program chairman, presented Romanian folk songs, attired in a native Romanian costume. She was accompanied by Mrs. Steve Tarzan.

"March of Time" films were shown the group by Harry Snodgrass. Plans were made for the election of officers at the April 16 meeting, of which Mrs. Lowell Brown will be program chairman.

Mrs. Ralph Gang was named chairman of the refreshments committee for the next meeting.

MIGHTY CARRIER MIDWAY IS ARMED WITH NEW PLANES

Navy's Fastest Flattop Is Scheduled For Christening Today

(By Associated Press)
NEWPORT NEWS, Va., March 20.—The decks of the mighty U. S. S. Midway—heaviest, strongest, and fastest carrier ever built—will be covered with a "1945 model aircraft" so new it has not yet seen combat action.

This was disclosed today by Artemus L. Gates, assistant secretary of the navy for air, in a speech prepared for the christening of the 45,000-ton Midway.

Gates gave no hint of what the new plane can do, but predicted the carrier and plane will not be a "pleasant combination to be contemplated by the Japanese war lords."

Addressing the men and women of the Newport News Shipbuilding Co. who built the weapon, Gates said:

"The name, Midway, is exceptionally appropriate for it was in that famed battle in June, 1942, that the aircraft carrier came into its own."

To safeguard the Midway, Gates declared, it has been given heavy armor, intricate watertight compartments and improved damage control.

The Midway will be commanded by Capt. J. F. Bolger, who served as Gates' aid before putting to sea. Sponsor of the vessel, which will be manned by some 3,000 officers and enlisted men, is Mrs. Bradford Williams Ripley, II, Dayton, Ohio, widow of a Navy lieutenant who lost his life in the Pacific plane crash.

She is the daughter of James M. Cox, former governor of Ohio and publisher of the Atlanta (Georgia) Journal, the Dayton (Ohio) News, Springfield (Ohio) News and Sun, and Miami (Florida) News.

Other guests included Paul Kirchner of Louisville, adjutant of the Tenth district; Ray Davis of East Palestine, Columbiana county commander, and six past county commanders, L. E. Koontz of East Palestine; Wilbur Mellinger and Hugh Glickler of Leontonia, and John T. Burns, Everett Rich and Don Mayhew of Salem.

After Mrs. Ripley smiles the champagne against her bow the Midway will be towed to an outfitting base.

Rev. Magann, Pastor of Baptist Church Here Since '37, Resigns

Rev. S. Talmage Magann, pastor of the First Baptist church, has given his resignation to the board of deacons, and the chairman of the board made the announcement to the congregation Sunday morning.

Rev. Magann has been in ill health and he gives this as the reason for his resignation. He has pastored this church since October, 1937, and has been instrumental in its growth.

No action has been taken by the church on his resignation.

Rev. Magann will speak on "Personal Work for Christ" at the prayer service at 7:45 p. m. Wednesday.

More than 100 have pledged to attend prayer service for 10 consecutive weeks. Seventy were present. Candidates for the rite of baptism and membership will meet with the board of deacons after this service.

LEGION IS HOST TO 28 NEW WAR VETS

Twenty-eight World War II veterans, guests of Charles H. Carey post No. 56, American Legion, were guests last night at the post home when Don Schoeppe, Legion rehabilitation chairman from Columbus, discussed the "G. I. Bill of Rights" and conducted a question period on the various provisions of the legislation.

In an informal discussion, Schoeppe answered questions on education, mustering-out pay, insurance, hospitalization, etc.

Clarence Whitmyer of Canton, 10th district commander of the Legion, outlined briefly the various phases of American Legion activity, how the organization functions and what it plans for 1945.

Guests from surrounding posts were present and several bankers attended to aid in the discussion. L. H. Cooley represented the Salem banks.

Emmett B. Harrison, R. D. 3, Lisbon, and William B. Mathias, 976 S. Lincoln ave., were welcomed as new members of the Salem post and applications were received from 11 other World War II veterans. A fish fry followed the meeting.

Other guests included Paul Kirchner of Louisville, adjutant of the Tenth district; Ray Davis of East Palestine, Columbiana county commander, and six past county commanders, L. E. Koontz of East Palestine; Wilbur Mellinger and Hugh Glickler of Leontonia, and John T. Burns, Everett Rich and Don Mayhew of Salem.

U. S. 7th, 3rd Armies Race For Junction

[BULLETIN]

LONDON, March 20.—The Luxembourg radio broadcast an unconfirmed report today that the Third and Seventh American armies had effected a junction in the Saar salient.

(By The Associated Press)

PARIS, March 20.—German defenses collapsed in the Saar basin today while the American Seventh and Third armies raced toward a junction near the Rhine.

Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's Third army flanked completely the Siegfried and alternate Hunsbrueck lines in the Saar and palatinate and moved within four miles of the second province city of Kaiserslautern, within nine miles of Mainz and 23 miles of the chemical center of Ludwigshafen.

Lt. Gen. Alexander M. Patch's Seventh army was completely through a 12-mile stretch of the Siegfried line between Saarbruecken and Zweibruecken.

A pocket around Saarbruecken and the great steel mills of the Saarland was all but closed—if not already so since reports were delayed by security blackouts. In the Kaiserslautern area, the armies were but 20-odd miles apart and closing fast.

More than 50,000 of the originally estimated 80,000 Germans of the enemy's First and Seventh armies were counted as casualties.

In seven days, Patton's offensive has inflicted at least 45,000 casualties on the original 80,000 Germans in the Rhine-Moselle-Saar pocket, Correspondent E. D. Ball said in a dispatch from the front.

20,000 Prisoners. Prisoners alone totaled up to 20,000 and the Seventh army had taken at least 4,000 additional.

Patton's troops crashed to within four miles of the major palatinate road center of Kaiserslautern and captured Alzey, 23 miles from the chemical centers of Mannheim and Ludwigshafen on the Rhine. The Third army was less than 25 miles from the Seventh army in the Kaiserslautern area. Ball messaged:

"With the Siegfried line flanked, the Third and Seventh army should meet shortly somewhere near the Rhine."

The Germans said the First army had launched a heavy attack in the southern end of the bridgehead east of the Rhine, penetrating seven miles into German lines beyond Hoenningen to reach the Rhine opposite Andernach. If true, this would lengthen the Remagen salient to 23 miles and place Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' troops within 11 miles of Ehrenbreitstein opposite Koblenz, where American occupation flags finally were struck in early 1923.

Front dispatches indicated the main pressure was northward along the last 17 miles toward the Ruhr and eastward, where a second airfield was captured.

Attacks of the Third and Seventh armies whittled down German holdings in the Saarland and palatinate to barely a third of the size of the original pocket.

Planes Form Lines. The Third army was within nine miles of Mainz, 29 of Frankfurt and 33 of Speyer.

Patton's army counted 8,355 prisoners yesterday for a record single day's take by any Allied army in the west—but it was estimated that the total bag for the day would reach from 15,000 to 20,000, when the count was completed.

The Seventh army bagged thousands more. Allied planes were so thick over the front today they had to queue up for attacks on Germans streaming along a superhighway from Kaiserslautern to the Rhine.

Unverified reports reaching Supreme headquarters said the Third and Seventh army had achieved a juncture farther west in the Saar—further west in the Saar—further west in the Saar.

HIGHWAY JOBS ARE OUTLINED

Columbiana and Mahoning Counties To Share In Postwar Projects

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, March 20.—The state highway department cleared its decks today for participation in a three-year program of federal-aid construction costing more than $120,000,000 immediately after the war ends.

Director Perry T. Ford said Ohio's share of $500,000,000 in federal funds to be appropriated to states during each of the first three post-war years for highway purposes, would be $20,000,000 annually or a total of $60,000,000.

The appropriations are authorized under the Federal-Aid Highway act of 1944 which provides for matching of federal money with state and local funds on construction projects. The federal government, however, will share only one-third of right-of-way costs in most cases.

Must Certify Matching Funds. Ohio is eligible to receive $4,000,000 of its first $20,000,000 and allotment for planning projects and for emergency construction authorized by the War Production Board.

In qualifying for the $4,000,000 allocation, Ford said the Public Roads administration specified Ohio must certify that matching money would be available by July 1, 1946, to pay for drafting of project plans and for WPB-approved construction.

Ford reported certifications submitted last week aggregated more than $20,000,000, although only slightly more than $4,000,000 in federal money would be available.

The projects for the state's federal-aid highway system, federal-aid secondary road program, urban and metropolitan areas already certified included construction of the new Spring Common bridge over the Mahoning river on route 18 in Youngstown to replace the present span at an aggregate cost of between one and one-half million dollars.

Columbiana-Mahoning Jobs. Another project in Mahoning county calls for construction of 2.5 miles of highway on route 630 from north of New Middletown to the Pennsylvania state line at an estimated cost of $125,000 to $160,000.

Other projects included, by counties:

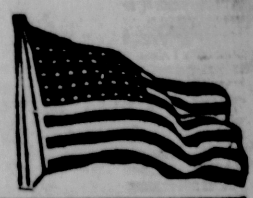

COLUMBIANA—Construction of three miles on route 30 east from West Point, $500,000 to $700,000. STARK—Bridge and grade separation on route 30 in Massillon, $700,000 to $800,000.

To safeguard the Midway, Gates declared, it has been given heavy armor, intricate watertight compartments and improved damage control.

The Midway will be commanded by Capt. J. F. Bolger, who served as Gates' aid before putting to sea.

Sponsor of the vessel, which will be manned by some 3,000 officers and enlisted men, is Mrs. Bradford Williams Ripley, II, Dayton, Ohio, widow of a Navy lieutenant who lost his life in the Pacific plane crash.

She is the daughter of James M. Cox, former governor of Ohio and publisher of the Atlanta (Georgia) Journal, the Dayton (Ohio) News, Springfield (Ohio) News and Sun, and Miami (Florida) News.

Matron of honor for Mrs. Ripley is Mrs. William Ayring, Grosse Pointe, Mich., and her maid of honor is Miss Frederica Patterson, New York City.

After Mrs. Ripley smiles the champagne against her bow the Midway will be towed to an outfitting base.

Rev. S. Talmage Magann, pastor of the First Baptist church, has given his resignation to the board of deacons, and the chairman of the board made the announcement to the congregation Sunday morning.

Rev. Magann has been in ill health and he gives this as the reason for his resignation. He has pastored this church since October, 1937, and has been instrumental in its growth.

No action has been taken by the church on his resignation.

Rev. Magann will speak on "Personal Work for Christ" at the prayer service at 7:45 p. m. Wednesday.

More than 100 have pledged to attend prayer service for 10 consecutive weeks. Seventy were present.

Candidates for the role of baptism and membership will meet with the board of deacons after this service.

MIGHTY CARRIER MIDWAY IS ARMED WITH NEW PLANES

Navy's Fastest Flattop Is Scheduled For Christening Today

(By Associated Press)

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., March 20.—The decks of the mighty U. S. S. Midway—heaviest, strongest and fastest carrier ever built—will be covered with a "1945 model aircraft" so new it has not yet seen combat action.

This was disclosed today by Artemus L. Gates, assistant secretary of the navy for air, in a speech prepared for the christening of the 45,000-ton Midway.

Gates gave no hint of what the new plane can do, but predicted the carrier and plane will not be a "pleasant combination to be contemplated by the Japanese war lords."

Addressing the men and women of the Newport News Shipbuilding Co. who built the weapon, Gates said:

"The name, Midway, is exceptionally appropriate for it was in that famed battle in June, 1942, that the aircraft carrier came into its own."

To safeguard the Midway, Gates declared, it has been given heavy armor, intricate watertight compartments and improved damage control.

The Midway will be commanded by Capt. J. F. Bolger, who served as Gates' aid before putting to sea.

Sponsor of the vessel, which will be manned by some 3,000 officers and enlisted men, is Mrs. Bradford Williams Ripley, II, Dayton, Ohio, widow of a Navy lieutenant who lost his life in the Pacific plane crash.

Optimism In '44 Helps Explain Present U. S. Food Shortage

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The Salem News here presents the first of four articles telling why we are short of food—and likely to get shorter still—although American production is at record peak.)

The question has been asked increasingly this month by housewives often unable to find butter, chicken, cheese, sugar and eggs.

Congress has heard demands for an investigation, with special attention to foodstuffs shipping to foreign lands.

Explanations are to be found largely in two facts:

1. The government released more food than it should have, judged by what we know now, to civilians in 1944.
2. In planning this year's production, officials operated on the belief that the war in Europe would end in 1944.

To understand how and why shortages have developed let's first examine the food situation in broad general terms.

Peak Reached In 1944

After a slump during the early depression years, food production began to increase in 1937. It reached a peak in 1944. The increase was sharpest between 1941 and 1944. By the latter year, the output was 38 per cent above the 1935-39 average.

But in 1944, production of many commodities leveled off. Given average weather conditions, production this year probably will drop 5 to 10 per cent below last year.

Like production, demand started rising in 1937. It shot up sharply after the United States got into the war. But unlike production the demand curve still points upward.

The peak of the demand has not yet been reached.

More food is required now than at any time since the war started.

There are two main reasons— for both this country and its fighting Allies—are larger than ever before.

Fashion Academy Names "13 Best Dressed Women"

NEW YORK, March 20.—An unsuspicious fashion academy today named 13 best-dressed women of the year. The "public life" award went to "women in the uniformed services."

Winners in the other categories were: Screen, Ann Sheridan; stage, Carole Landis; radio, Mary Livingstone; business, Mrs. Walter Thornton; society, Mrs. Harmon Spencer Auguste; concert, Vivian Della Chiesa; opera, Nadine Connor; popular music, Jane Froman; journalism, Elsie Davis; international, Mrs. Leon Mandel; All-American, Jane Wyatt.

OPA PUTS FREEZE ON PRICE MARK-UPS

WASHINGTON, March 20.—The OPA set up rules today by which it hopes to cut back shoppers' prices of clothing, textiles, furniture and house furnishings.

Overnight, the agency froze the price mark-ups of approximately 300,000 retailers on sales of the affected items. Each store was forbidden to charge a greater margin over its own cost than it did yesterday, March 19.

Thus, forthcoming reductions in manufacturers' prices, which are being restored to the 1942-43 average level, will be passed on to customers.

U. S. 7th, 3rd Armies Race For Junction

[BULLETIN] LONDON, March 20.—The Luxembourg radio broadcast an unconfirmed report today that the Third and Seventh American armies had effected a junction in the Saar salient.

(By The Associated Press)

PARIS, March 20.—German defenses collapsed in the Saar basin today while the American Seventh and Third armies raced toward a junction near the Rhine.

Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's Third Army flanked completely the Siegfried and alternate Hunsbrueck lines in the Saar and palatinate and moved within four miles of the second province city of Kaiserslautern, within nine miles of Mainz and 23 miles of the chemical center of Ludwigshafen.

Lt. Gen. Alexander M. Patch's Seventh Army was completely through a 12-mile stretch of the Siegfried line between Saarbruecken and Zweibruecken.

A pocket around Saarbruecken and the great steel mills of the Saarland was all but closed—if not already so since reports were delayed by security blackouts. In the Kaiserslautern area, the armies were but 20-odd miles apart and closing fast.

More than 50,000 of the originally estimated 80,000 Germans of the enemy's First and Seventh armies were counted as casualties.

In seven days, Patton's offensive has inflicted at least 45,000 casualties on the original 80,000 Germans in the Rhine-Moselle-Saar pocket, Correspondent E. D. Ball said in a dispatch from the front.

20,000 Prisoners

Prisoners alone totaled up to 20,000 and the Seventh army had taken at least 4,000 additional. Patton's troops crashed to within four miles of the major palatinate road center of Kaiserslautern and captured Alzey, 23 miles from the chemical centers of Mannheim and Ludwigshafen on the Rhine.

The Third Army was less than 25 miles from the Seventh army in the Kaiserslautern area. Ball messaged.

"With the Siegfried line flanked, the Third and Seventh army should meet shortly somewhere near the Rhine."

The Germans said the First Army had launched a heavy attack in the southern end of the bridgehead east of the Rhine, penetrating seven miles into German lines beyond Hoenningen to reach the Rhine opposite Andernach. If true, this would lengthen the Remagen salient to 23 miles and place Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' troops within 11 miles of Ehrenbreitstein opposite Koblenz, where American occupation flags finally were struck in early 1923.

Front dispatches indicated the main pressure was northward along the last 17 miles toward the Ruhr and eastward, where a second airfield was captured.

Attacks of the Third and Seventh armies whittled down German holdings in the Saarland and palatinate to barely a third of the size of the original pocket.

Planes Form Lines

The Third Army was within nine miles of Mainz, 29 of Frankfurt and 33 of Speyer.

Patton's army counted 8,355 prisoners yesterday for a record single day's take by any Allied army in the west—but it was estimated that the total bag for the day would reach from 15,000 to 20,000, when the count was completed.

The Seventh army bagged thousands and more.

Allied planes were so thick over the front today they had to queue up for attacks on Germans streaming along a superhighway from Kaiserslautern to the Rhine.

Unverified reports reaching Supreme headquarters said the Third and Seventh army had achieved a juncture farther west in the Saar.

HIGHWAY JOBS ARE OUTLINED

Columbiana and Mahoning Counties To Share In Postwar Projects

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, March 20.—The state highway department cleared its decks today for participation in a three-year program of federal-aid construction costing more than $120,000,000 immediately after the war ends.

Director Perry T. Ford said Ohio's share of $500,000,000 in federal funds to be appropriated to states during each of the first three post-war years for highway purposes, would be $20,000,000 annually or a total of $60,000,000.

The appropriations are authorized under the Federal-Aid Highway act of 1944 which provides for matching of federal money with state and local funds on construction projects. The federal government, however, will share only one-third of right-of-way costs in most cases.

Must Certify Matching Funds

Ohio is eligible to receive $4,000,000 of its first $20,000,000 and allotment for planning projects and for emergency construction authorized by the War Production board.

In qualifying for the $4,000,000 allocation, Ford said the Public Roads administration specified Ohio must certify that matching money would be available by July 1, 1946, to pay for drafting of project plans and for WPB-approved construction.

Ford reported certifications submitted last week aggregated more than $20,000,000, although only slightly more than $4,000,000 in federal money would be available.

The projects for the state's federal-aid highway system, federal-aid secondary road program, urban and metropolitan areas already certified included construction of the new Spring Common bridge over the Mahoning river on route 18 in Youngstown to replace the present span at an aggregate cost of between one and one-half million dollars.

Columbiana-Mahoning Jobs

Another project in Mahoning county calls for construction of 2.5 miles of highway on route 630 from north of New Middletown to the Pennsylvania state line at an estimated cost of $125,000 to $160,000.

Other projects included, by counties:

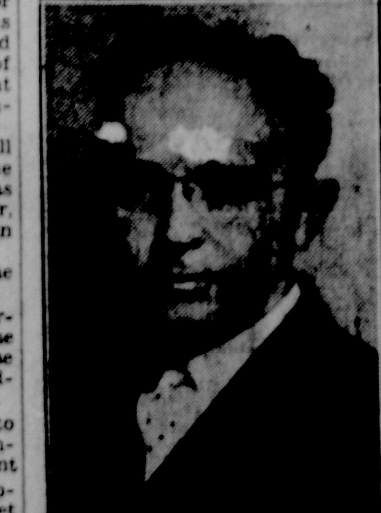

Pfc. Eugene S. Gilbert Of Winona Is Wounded

Pfc. Eugene S. Gilbert, husband of Mrs. Mary Gilbert of Winona, was slightly wounded in action in Germany on March 2, according to a War department message yesterday.

A veteran of two years in the service, Pfc. Gilbert had been serving with the Third Army in Germany. He was employed in Pittsburgh before entering service.

The Impossible Takes Longer

At the Willow Run Bomber plant of the Ford Motor Co. on the night of March 13 the doors at the end of the assembly line opened and the 8,000th Liberator bomber rolled out, ready to fly to battle. It was just an incident in a production schedule that has been turning out a finished bomber every hour of working time for the last 13 months.

When Willow Run was in the blueprint stage, the critics opened up; they said it was too big. When the plant opened up, the critics opened up wider; they said it was floundering. When mishaps occurred and schedules weren't kept, the critics were even busier than the harassed officials and workers trying to bring order out of confusion; it was a great victory for the experts who know why things can't be done.

Once it started to roll, Willow Run quit making news. It isn't news in the United States when mass production works. That is an everyday occurrence. The impossible always takes a little longer than expected, but with significantly few exceptions the impossible has been achieved in every major enterprise of war production since war began.

Quantity and Quality of Labor

While pressure builds up for a more realistic attitude on deferments for essential workers in such key industries as steel, mining, rubber, transportation and aircraft, the Roosevelt administration remains officially committed to a policy of solving the manpower problem by volume alone. The administration argues that a compulsory draft would do what is not being done satisfactorily in all quarters by a free labor market plus certain wartime restrictions, while management seems to be taking the position that more quantity of manpower without the privilege of retaining workers of special quality would be no answer at all. Though cool to a labor draft, industry is keenly interested in a more liberal deferment policy.

This issue needs to be resolved more satisfactorily in plans for maximum security in the event of another war. Selective service boards have been struggling since the beginning of the draft between the armed services' demand for men and industry's insistence on deferments for certain men held essential for efficient operation. When the record of the war is compiled it may be revealed that lack of a clear policy imposed a needless handicap on the war effort. It is noteworthy that the War department itself tacitly has admitted that some men who were drafted would have been more useful in their civilian capacities, by sending some of them back to their jobs when critical shortages arose.

Who Spawned Hitler?

Every step of Adolf Hitler's rise to dictatorship in Germany was taken with the consent and encouragement of Germans. The record shows that most of them were taken on a claim of popular support.

Without the help of the enemies of the republic who were looking for leadership, Hitler could not have maneuvered his political gangsters into a position where established authority recognized them.

Without the help of financiers who saw in his counter-revolutionary movement the means of maintaining their position, Hitler would have lacked funds. Without the help of militarists who saw in him the means of reestablishing their prestige, he could not have maintained his program of counter-revolution. Without the compliance of the German people as a whole he could not have begun and carried through his preparations for war. Without their enthusiastic support after war began, he could not have carried on his campaigns.

These are the things to remember as Germany's adventure with Hitlerism comes to a sick and bloody conclusion. It will be tempting, as it was tempting just before and after the armistice in World War I, to take seriously the claim of the German minority that it never believed in the government and was betrayed by the war. It will be tempting to forget the record and to indulge in evasive thinking about the ultimate responsibility for outlaw governments. The same temptation already has added confusion in dealings with Italians, who now disclaim responsibility for Mussolini. It has clouded the picture of French responsibility for Laval and Petain. In due time, it will crop up in foreign attitudes toward the Japanese.

The fact is that the governed must accept ultimate responsibility for the governments that represent them—or misrepresent them. Unless they can devise means of control, they may be misrepresented, but misrepresentation does not constitute a valid claim for forgiveness when things go wrong. The Germans already are beginning to make the claim that they never subscribed to Hitlerism, but the claim is more than 10 years and one world catastrophe too late to be convincing. If Germany had repudiated Hitler in 1933, he would still be what he was then—a revolutionist with advanced symptoms of paranoia.

The Stars Say

For Wednesday, March 21

JUDGING by the lunar transits, there is hope of breaking down of stubborn obstacles, static or crystallized conditions, together with a restoration of a more harmonious balance to a disappointing and depressing state of affairs.

A keen analysis of basic operations with acute perceptions and a determination to placate opposing forces, where money, power or corporate influences are essential to success. Take a new or more flexible course of action, adhere strictly to codes and important programs may be initiated and with fraud or deception vanquished. Finesse wins.

Those whose birthday it is may find the opportunity to placate opposing forces, remove obstacles and recapture harmony and success, by rearranging programs and tactics on a more essential basis, with keen initiative but finesse rather than force directed to overcoming opposition, want of cooperation and certain baneful, treacherous or fraudulent situations.

Quick, quiet but clever strategies, with strict observation of rules and regulations may break down barriers with much pleasure in attaining cherished objectives.

A child born on this day will have sound faculties, keen initiative and skills, for vanquishing its adversaries and enjoying a successful and happy career.

Abundance From Shortage

By James Thrasher

Not long ago we came across an editorial which took the coal industry to task for making so many varied products from the scarce fuel and even, in the midst of the existing shortage, having the nerve to boast about it.

Perhaps, in the heat of his indignation, the author of that editorial didn't stop to think that most of the products he was complaining about were really by-products. In fact, the high consumption of coal is a logical and legitimate reason in itself for the abundance of these byproducts.

At the beginning of the national emergency there were about 13,000 byproduct coke ovens in this country. Since 1940 nearly 2,000 more have been built to meet the steel industry's increasing demand for coke.

Chemical byproducts are obtained from these coke ovens by the recovery of gases and vapors from the smoke by distilling and washing. Among them are:

Phenol, used in the making of picric acid for explosives, and in the production of plastics, disinfectant and aspirin.

Naphthalene, another source of explosives, also of paint for war equipment, plasticizer for synthetic rubber, insect repellent, dyes, insecticide (moth flakes), perfumes, and plastic-type paints.

Ammonia, which is another ingredient of explosives, and also source of ammonium sulphate for fertilizer.

Other coke byproducts are sulfa drugs, nicotinamide (one of the B vitamins), anti-freeze mixtures, photographic developers, lacquers and enamels, roofing and paving materials, and dry cleaning fluids.

And the smoke is still salvageable after the chemicals are removed. For the residue is coal gas, which can be used as industrial fuel or piped into city mains. Last year's production of coke-oven gas was about 200 million cubic feet greater than in 1940.

Not all coal products are snatched out of thin air and thick smoke, of course. Nylon—remember?—is one of them that is made directly from coal. But no civilian who has shopped around for that elusive synthetic in the past three years can complain that the coal which goes into its manufacture is being put to frivolous use.

One would hardly think of including most of the byproducts listed above among the creature comforts that the war has made scarce. But their military value cannot be minimized. And, although apparently no great reserves of these byproducts have been accumulated, they have met most civilian needs in addition to filling war demands.

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

Sulfonamide Drugs and Ear Infections

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.
THE sulfonamide drugs, of which we have heard so much of late, are not antitoxins. That is, they do not neutralize poisons formed by germs.

They do seem to act directly on germs, either to stop their growth or to destroy them.

But to have these effects, the drugs must reach the germs in sufficient quantities. They have no effect on the germs in the secretions coming from an infected area or on the germs in an abscessed cavity. They have the greatest effect when the germs are in the body fluids, as in blood infections or meningitis. Once pus formation has started in the ear, the sulfonamide drugs cannot be expected to stop it.

Use Carefully

There are several reasons, then, why sulfonamide drugs must be used carefully in treating ear infections. Most acute ear infections clear up without the mastoid back of the ear being infected. Now and then, when the sulfonamide drugs are used, the symptoms of ear infection disappear although the infection is still continuing. Then it may spread into the mastoid cells without any warning signs. In such instances the condition may progress to such an extent that a serious outcome results.

The sulfonamide drugs also often cause reactions.

They are best used when given in large doses, with the patient in bed under constant observation. The urine must be tested each day for the presence of blood cells or albumin, and the blood also must be examined at least once during the course of treatment to make sure there is no destruction of blood cells. If blood is found in the urine, or if there is albumin present, the use of the sulfonamide drugs must be stopped, and if side drugs, if given at once, may completely check the infection.

Tomorrow Dr. Bundesen will discuss "Vitamin Needs."

Who Spawned Hitler?

Every step of Adolf Hitler's rise to dictatorship in Germany was taken with the consent and encouragement of Germans. The record shows that most of them were taken on a claim of popular support.

Without the help of the enemies of the republic who were looking for leadership, Hitler could not have maneuvered his political gangsters into a position where established authority recognized them.

Without the help of financiers who saw in his counter-revolutionary movement the means of maintaining their position, Hitler would have lacked funds. Without the help of militarists who saw in him the means of reestablishing their prestige, he could not have maintained his program of counter-revolution. Without the compliance of the German people as a whole he could not have begun and carried through his preparations for war. Without their enthusiastic support after war began, he could not have carried on his campaigns.

These are the things to remember as Germany's adventure with Hitlerism comes to a sick and bloody conclusion. It will be tempting, as it was tempting just before and after the armistice in World War I, to take seriously the claim of the German minority that it never believed in the government and was betrayed by the war. It will be tempting to forget the record and to indulge in evasive thinking about the ultimate responsibility for outlaw governments. The same temptation already has added confusion in dealings with Italians, who now disclaim responsibility for Mussolini. It has clouded the picture of French responsibility for Laval and Petain. In due time, it will crop up in foreign attitudes toward the Japanese.

The fact is that the governed must accept ultimate responsibility for the governments that represent them—or misrepresent them. Unless they can devise means of control, they may be misrepresented, but misrepresentation does not constitute a valid claim for forgiveness when things go wrong. The Germans already are beginning to make the claim that they never subscribed to Hitlerism, but the claim is more than 10 years and one world catastrophe too late to be convincing. If Germany had repudiated Hitler in 1933, he would still be what he was then—a revolutionist with advanced symptoms of paranoia.

The Stars Say

For Wednesday, March 21

JUDGING by the lunar transits, there is hope of breaking down of stubborn obstacles, static or crystallized conditions, together with a restoration of a more harmonious balance to a disappointing and depressing state of affairs.

A keen analysis of basic operations with acute perceptions and a determination to placate opposing forces, where money, power or corporate influences are essential to success. Take a new or more flexible course of action, adhere strictly to codes and important programs may be initiated and with fraud or deception vanquished. Finesse wins.

Those whose birthday it is may find the opportunity to placate opposing forces, remove obstacles and recapture harmony and success, by rearranging programs and tactics on a more essential basis, with keen initiative but finesse rather than force directed to overcoming opposition, want of cooperation and certain baneful, treacherous or fraudulent situations.

Quick, quiet but clever strategies, with strict observation of rules and regulations may break down barriers with much pleasure in attaining cherished objectives.

A child born on this day will have sound faculties, keen initiative and skills, for vanquishing its adversaries and enjoying a successful and happy career.

Abundance From Shortage

By James Thrasher

Not long ago we came across an editorial which took the coal industry to task for making so many varied products from the scarce fuel and even, in the midst of the existing shortage, having the nerve to boast about it.

Perhaps, in the heat of his indignation, the author of that editorial didn't stop to think that most of the products he was complaining about were really by-products. In fact, the high consumption of coal is a logical and legitimate reason in itself for the abundance of these byproducts.

At the beginning of the national emergency there were about 13,000 byproduct coke ovens in this country. Since 1940 nearly 2,000 more have been built to meet the steel industry's increasing demand for coke.

Chemical byproducts are obtained from these coke ovens by the recovery of gases and vapors from the smoke by distilling and washing. Among them are: Phenol, used in the making of picric acid for explosives, and in the production of plastics, disinfectant and aspirin.

Naphthalene, another source of explosives, also of paint for war equipment, plasticizer for synthetic rubber, insect repellent, dyes, insecticide (moth flakes), perfumes, and plastic-type paints.

Ammonia, which is another ingredient of explosives, and also source of ammonium sulphate for fertilizer.

Other coke byproducts are sulfur drugs, nicotineamide (one of the B vitamins), anti-freeze mixtures, photographic developers, lacquers and enamels, roofing and paving materials, and dry cleaning fluids.

And the smoke is still salvageable after the chemicals are removed. For the residue is coal gas, which can be used as industrial fuel or piped into city mains. Last year's production of coke-oven gas was about 200 million cubic feet greater than in 1940.

Not all coal products are snatched out of thin air and thick smoke, of course. Nylon—remember?—is one of them that is made directly from coal. But no civilian who has shopped around for that elusive synthetic in the past three years can complain that the coal which goes into its manufacture is being put to frivolous use.

One would hardly think of including most of the byproducts listed above among the creature comforts that the war has made scarce. But their military value cannot be minimized. And, although apparently no great reserves of these byproducts have been accumulated, they have met most civilian needs in addition to filling war demands.

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

Sulfonamide Drugs and Ear Infections

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

THE sulfonamide drugs, of which we have heard so much of late, are not antitoxins. That is, they do not neutralize poisons formed by germs.

They do seem to act directly on germs, either to stop their growth or to destroy them.

But to have these effects, the drugs must reach the germs in sufficient quantities. They have no effect on the germs in the secretions coming from an infected area or on the germs in an abscessed cavity. They have the greatest effect when the germs are in the body fluids, as in blood infections or meningitis. Once pus formation has started in the ear, the sulfonamide drugs cannot be expected to stop it.

Use Carefully

There are several reasons, then, why sulfonamide drugs must be used carefully in treating ear infections. Most acute ear infections clear up without the mastoid back of the ear being infected. Now and then, when the sulfonamide drugs are used, the symptoms of ear infection disappear although the infection is still continuing. Then it may spread into the mastoid cells without any warning signs. In such instances the condition may progress to such an extent that a serious outcome results.

The sulfonamide drugs also often cause reactions. They are best used when given in large doses, with the patient in bed under constant observation. The urine must be tested each day for the presence of blood cells or albumin, and the blood also must be examined at least once during the course of treatment to make sure there is no destruction of blood cells. If blood is found in the urine, or if there is albumin present, the use of the sulfonamide drugs must be stopped, and if mide drugs, if given at once, may completely check the infection.

Tomorrow Dr. Bundesen will discuss "Vitamin Needs."

Death's BRIGHT DIAMONDS

by Lionel Mosher

THE STORY: Nick queries Mr. Hudson about Eric Woolf but gets no satisfaction. Brenda Temple and her father are forced to remain overnight at The Ledges when their car refuses to start.

XII
There is no more arresting sound than an unexpected knock on a door at night.

"What's that?" asked Charley. "It's someone knocking at the front door," said Mr. Hudson, "but I wonder who it can be?"

The caller had waited for a few moments, then attacked the knocker with renewed vigor.

"He's impatient," murmured Brenda.

"I'll go," I said quickly and I went through the dining room. I opened the door cautiously and peered out into the darkness.

"Who is it?" "Oh, is that you, Mr. Trent? It's Cass Hapes. I saw your lights and thought I'd investigate."

"Come in, Cass," I threw open the door with relief.

Hapes had assumed his peaked police hat as a mark of authority, but the rest of him was unconstructed Northshoreman. His red rubber boots were glistening with moisture, and the soft mud on their tips told of reconnoitering on the grounds. Mr. Hudson had followed me and now he came forward through the hall.

"Why, Cass," he said, "what's wrong?"

"I just saw the cars and your lights, Mr. Hudson, and thought I'd look in."

Hapes whacked the moisture off the crown of his hat. "Well, I'm glad to see that the Sandy Point police are on the job."

"Minot," corrected Hapes mildly, "Minot or Sandy Point, you'd better have a little something to ward off cold."

"No," Hapes shook his head and there was a serious glint in his eyes. "I'm on duty, Mr. Hudson."

"Mr. Hudson put back his head and eyed Hapes shrewdly.

"What's on your mind, Cass?"

The policeman put his finger on a bubble of moisture on his hat and rubbed the finger against his thumb.

"Well, Mr. Hudson, there's been some prowling going on in Sandy Point—especially here at The Ledges, and I thought you ought to be on the watch."

Mr. Hudson smiled. "There always is, Cass. It's probably just a few curious townies who want to see what the summer colony lives in."

Hapes flushed. "It's not townies, Mr. Hudson."

The policeman held up his hat and I saw a clean hole through the peak.

"Great heavens, man, that's not a bullet hole?"

"It ain't termite," replied Hapes, "and it's damned good shooting."

"What happened, Cass?" I asked. "It was last night. I was driving down to Cap Hutchin's and it had just fallen dark. As I came past The Ledges, I saw a bug light over the garage. It went out the minute I spotted it. Somehow I didn't like the look of it, so I pulled up by the gate and climbed the wall. I hadn't got any more than halfway to the garage when I spotted the light again. I yelled and—got this for an answer," Hapes gestured with his hat. "I dropped like I was hit and waited for another shot so I could fire at the flash. But whoever it was, he was cagey. No shot came and he got away."

"Nicholas," Phineas Hudson took my arm gently. "Don't say anything of this to the girls."

"Several people have reported seeing lights here," went on Hapes. "At first, I thought you might be coming down from Boston, but no one had seen you so I got suspicious."

"Naturally," Mr. Hudson shook his head in perplexity. "But I can't understand what anybody would want here. Nothing's been taken and there's little of value in the house."

Hapes said: "Whoever it was had no business here, Mr. Hudson, and it's my job to find him."

"Of course," said Mr. Hudson. "I appreciate that and I'm very grateful. But I don't think there's much danger of your marauder turning up tonight, now that we're here."

Hapes looked very much as if he wanted to say something. But he closed his lips stubbornly.

"All right, Mr. Hudson," He pulled on his cap. "I just wanted to make sure everything was in order. But remember that the fellow who was here last night is a killer and he's not particular who he shoots at."

When we got back to the library, Bruce Temple turned his head and I remember thinking that he looked unpleasantly arrogant.

"Wasn't that Hapes?" he asked. "Yes," replied Mr. Hudson. "He saw our lights and thought he'd investigate to make sure everything was all right."

Charley came through the door with a pot of coffee which he set down on the table. He sat down beside me. "Who was at the door, Nick?"

"Cass Hapes."

"What did he want?"

"Just checking up to see who was here."

Charley's eyes rested on mine for a full five seconds. Then he said: "Nick, he knew who was here. I saw him in the square this afternoon and told him all about it."

"There is a very large fly in somebody's ointment," I said.

"Coffee, Nick?" Brenda Temple passed me a cup and saucer. Her eyes were bright and knowing. "You may be glad of it later."

ADVANCING THROUGH BONN RUINS

YANK INFANTRYMEN move the western front closer toward Berlin as they advance through a rubble-filled street of Bonn in Germany. Famed as Beethoven's birthplace, Bonn was hit hard by Allied shell and bomb, and remains as you see it—another casualty of war. (International)

The Race on the Rhine

Capture of the Rhine-crossing city of Bingen by the American Third Army following collapse of the center span of the Remagen bridge gives the rampaging Yanks another beyond-the-Rhine threat, and throws panic into thousands of Nazis squeezed between the Third and Seventh Armies. Latter army is plowing through the Siegfried Line rim of the Saar basin on the way to junction with the Third.

MAIL STIRS MALE AT PACIFIC BASE

MARINE BASE IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC—During the holiday season, the public address system gave forth with the following announcement:

"Attention all hands! A lot of airmail has just come in. Come and get it."

Then came a pause. Then: "Correction. A hell of a lot of airmail has just come in. Come and get it."

POINTED ANSWER TO HOUSEWIFE'S PRAYER

PEORIA, Ill.—Seven hogs, weighing about 235 pounds each, said Farmer Bob Carter employed his best pig-calling technique in a vain effort to coax them back to shore. A floe broke away and carried the porkers off in the gathering darkness.

PIECFUL SOLUTION

ROCKFORD, Ill.—As a man and his wife motored in an early morning brownout, they debated whether they should go home or stop somewhere for a bite to eat. The argument waxed warm. Their car rammed into a parked automobile. Both were cut and bruised—and the issue was resolved. They went to a hospital.

HEIGHT IS THE BUNK!

CHICAGO—The men who design Pullman cars report that, in line with Army records showing the stature of American men is increasing steadily, berths have been lengthened to six feet, five inches. The first sleeping car some 80 years ago provided six foot bunks. Later they were extended by two and a half inches.

WOMAN APPEARS WAR WORKER AT 80

NEW YORK — When the case of Mrs. Marianna Gagliano, charged with maintaining improper fire escapes as owner of a building, was called in Municipal court here, her son-in-law said she was 80 years old, too old to reply to the summons. Inspector Otto Larson of the Department of Housing and Buildings said: "She's 80 all right, but she's working in a war plant." The magistrate directed that she appear in court.

Bruck area, sealing off Germany's last great war industry belt short of the Ruhr.

The Ruhr was partly conquered; many of its factories were smashed by shells as far east as Essen.

Saarlauren Falls

The First army east of the Rhine drove two and a half miles east of the Ruhr-Frankfurt superhighway and captured a second airfield in their bridgehead, now at least 19 miles long and eight miles wide. Gen. Hodges' tanks were debouching on the plain east of Bonn, and leading to the Ruhr.

Patton was forging one of the most complete victories the Western front has seen. His tanks reached a point within nine miles of Mainz, where the Nazis blew three Rhine bridges.

He captured Saarlauren, Saar steel city of 32,000, after three and a half months of battle. The suburbs of Endorf, Saarlaurenroden and Fraulautern also were taken.

Kaiserslautern, palatine rail and road center was menaced by Third army armored columns moving from several directions, and by the Seventh army moving up from the south.

Gen. Eisenhower's communiqué noted that the Siegfried line had been breached in at least a dozen places between Saarbrücken and the Rhine.

Special Music Arranged For Evangelistic Service

The Koon twins of Akron, will sing in the musical prelude to the Evangelistic Crusade service at 7:30 tonight at the First Friends church. Radio singers, the 10-year old girls know 175 songs by memory.

Rev. Gladstone Woodhouse of Payden City, W. Va. and Rev. John Woodhouse of Batavia, N. Y., brothers, will feature piano duets.

Lester Metts of Kokoma, Ind., violinist and vocalist, who is assisting with the music, played his first trumpet solo in public at last night's service.

Using for his theme, "The Baptism of the Holy Ghost," Rev. Woodhouse declared that God calls men to forsake sin. "You cannot be a child of God and engage in the sin business," he said.

"There is no such a thing as a sinning salvation, though there may be sinning religions. Heaven will not be made up of people who indulge in sin. The reason there are so many pale-faced Christians is because there has been no death to sin in their personal experiences."

Bruecken area, sealing off Germany's last great war industry belt short of the Ruhr.

The Ruhr was partly conquered; many of its factories were smashed by shells as far east as Essen.

Saarlautern Falls

The First army east of the Rhine drove two and a half miles east of the Ruhr-Frankfurt superhighway and captured a second airfield in their bridgehead, now at least 19 miles long and eight miles wide. Gen. Hodges' tanks were debouching on the plain east of Bonn, land leading to the Ruhr.

Patton was forcing one of the most complete victories the Western front has seen. His tanks reached a point within nine miles of Mainz, where the Nazis blew three Rhine bridges.

He captured Saarlautern, Saar steel city of 32,000, after three and a half months of battle. The suburbs of Ensdorf, Saarlauternroden and Fraulautern also were taken.

Kaiserslautern, palatine rail and road center was menaced by Third army armored columns moving from several directions, and by the Seventh army moving up from the south. Gen. Eisenhower's communique noted that the Siegfried line had been breached in at least a dozen places between Saarbruecken and the Rhine.

SERMON THEME: "THE ESSENTIALS TO FINAL ILLUMINATING! INVITING! INSPIRATIONAL!"

Special Music Arranged For Evangelistic Service

The Koon twins of Akron, will sing in the musical prelude to the Evangelistic Crusade service at 7:30 tonight at the First Friends church. Radio singers, the 10-year old girls know 175 songs by memory.

Rev. Gladstone Woodhouse of Payden City, W. Va. and Rev. John Woodhouse of Batavia, N. Y., brothers, will feature piano duets.

Lester Metts of Kokoma, Ind., violinist and vocalist, who is assisting with the music, played his first trumpet solo in public at last night's service.

Using for his theme, "The Baptism of the Holy Ghost," Rev. Woodhouse declared that God calls men to forsake sin. "You cannot be a child of God and engage in the sin business," he said.

"There is no such thing as a sinning salvation, though there may be sinning religions. Heaven will not be made up of people who indulge in sin. The reason there are so many pale-faced Christians is because there has been no death to sin in their personal experiences."

"Guess this kind of puts it up to you, Mrs. Jones-to-be!"

It's up to you, honey.

I'll do all I can—but they don't pay privates in the Army very much.

So—it's up to you. It's your turn now, to wear the pants, hold down a job, and take care of the Jones' future finances.

You're smart enough to do it, too. To realize that if you'll take every cent that you don't need to live on and tuck it away in those same War Bonds I've been buying—we'll do all right.

I'll be coming back someday. I know that. I don't think anything could happen to a fellow who's going to marry you. And when I do come back...

With what I've saved in War Bonds, and what you're going to save in War Bonds, and with the extra money those Bonds are going to bring—we'll...

We'll have a stake. A stake that'll help us to make up for all the time I've been away.

And we'll have something else, too—something that we wouldn't want to be without. Between my fighting and your buying, we'll have the knowledge that we both toed the line and did our share.

So buy those Bonds, honey. And hang onto them. Till the day when I get back—it's up to you!

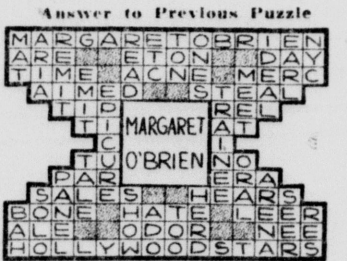

Keep faith with our fighters—buy War Bonds for keeps!

TRADE RUMORED ON BETWEEN DODGERS, CUBS FOR CATCHER

Rickey Said To Be Eyeing Cubs' Four Back Men To Help His One

By TED MEIER
NEW YORK, March 20—A trade is brewing between the Brooklyn Dodgers and the Chicago Cubs. Word came from the Bear Mountain camp of the Dodgers that President Branch Rickey was searching for a catcher to help Stan Andrews, the only backstopper the Dodgers possess.

Rickey, it was rumored, was eyeing the four catchers the Cubs have. As trading bait Rickey is said to have put French Bordagaray on the block.

Pitcher Whit Wyatt, who was hampered with a lame arm last season, appeared at Bear Mountain, but Rickey said that he, along with Pitcher Art Herring, is classified 2-C in the draft and will not be available for an indefinite period.

Other training camp briefs: Boston Red Sox—Five players still unsigned, among them star Pitcher Emmet O'Neill who wants more money.

Detroit Tigers—Third Sacker Pinky Higgins, 36 in May, due to take pre-induction physical exam on Thursday. His loss would seriously cripple the team.

St. Louis Browns—First Baseman George McQuinn signed contract. Pitcher Sig Jakucki reported his arm felt sore.

Pittsburgh Pirates—Third Baseman Bob Elliott, a 4-F whose third draft exam has been referred to Washington for final decision, was expected to report today.

Early Is Back
Boston Braves—Pitcher Tom Easley, recently discharged from Army, reported eager to resume where he left off in 1942.

St. Louis Cardinals—Blind Donnelly, World Series pitching star, was rejected by Army for 10th time. Mort Cooper, 20-game winner, signed contract, and Infielder Johnny Antonelli was classified 4-F.

New York Giants—Outfielder Danny Gasdella suffered sprained ankle when he stepped into home while chasing fakes—Outfielder Johnny Lindell signed contract. Alton Gettel was termed likely prospect as starting pitcher.

Chicago White Sox—Bill Nagel, third baseman purchased from Milwaukee, reported. Shortstop Floyd Baker called up for draft re-exam at Youngstown March 26.

Philadelphia Phils—Southpaw Al Gerheuser showed up at camp, but said he was still dissatisfied with contract. Pitcher Wilbur Reaser said he was returning to Reading, Pa., for war work.

Chicago Cubs—Pitcher Ed Haney was scheduled to test arm in practice game today. Shortstop Len Merullo reported.

Philadelphia A's—Russ Christopher, star twirler, reported 10 pounds underweight.

BARONS OPEN CUP FIGHT WITH BISONS

(By Associated Press)
CLEVELAND, March 20—The Cleveland Barons tonight opened their second straight bid for the American Hockey league's Calder Cup playoffs against the Buffalo Bisons.

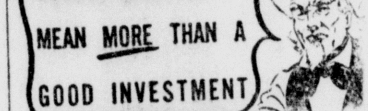

The Barons were league percentage champions last year but took a four-straight spanking from those same Bisons in the playoffs. This year the Barons again finished at the top but hope that's as far as the repeating goes.

The amusement curfew has forced some changes in playoff procedure. The games will be possible under the new rules.

In case of tie scores at the end of the regulation playing time the teams will play one ten-minute overtime period and then 20-minute "sudden death" periods until 11:45 p. m.

Victories will count two points and tie games one with the series going to the team which amasses eight points.

The second game will be at Buffalo tomorrow. The third here.

Middletown-McKinley Fray As Near A Hollywood Setup As Any Writer Could Desire

By HAROLD HARRISON
COLUMBUS, March 20—A Hollywood scrip writer couldn't have thought up a better one than the Middletown-Canton McKinley game which will open the Class A Ohio High school basketball tournament at Toledo Saturday.

It pits Middletown, trying to become the first school in 15 years to win two titles in a row, against McKinley, which three times has driven right into the championship game but which has never won the crown.

Quite a few miles separate Middletown from Canton, so those two teams don't get together during the regular season, but that doesn't detract from some rather intense rivalry. On Middletown's first three trips to a final state tournament it lost each time on the first round by two points and two of those defeats were to McKinley.

Then there is the fact Middletown is going into that game with 42 consecutive triumphs and a defensive record that is becoming an eighth wonder of the Ohio High school basketball world.

Some of the statisticians yesterday figured out that over the last eight seasons, prior to this one, Middletown has allowed its opponents an average of just 19 points a game. The Middle foes upped the point production a little this year, averaging slightly better than 22 points a contest, but most coaches still would like to know how to win ball games with only 22 or 23 points.

Soft-spoken Royner Greene, now in his 16th season at Middletown, is taking it all in stride. He knows his club is the marked team of this year's tournament. That burden always is shouldered on the defending champion and particularly when the chaps are unbeaten.

From all appearances Greene's biggest worry is getting sufficient tickets for Middletown fans who want to see the Middies in action at Toledo Saturday. Middletown will take all it can get.

The only team to score more than 30 points against the Middies this season was Portsmouth, which got 36 in dropping a 48 to 36 encounter. In tournament play Middletown has allowed a fraction less than 17 points a game.

Charles Clickner, Will Smethers, Paul Lansaw, Tom Turner and Don Bolton will carry most of the Middletown load. The No. 1 substitute is Bill Hannah. It's a remarkably well-balanced team as to size, ranging from Turner's five feet 11 inches to Clicker's six feet two inches. Smethers, Lansaw and Turner were mainstays of last year's championship team.

Canton McKinley will go into the game, making its 12th bid for the state title and with a record of 21 victories in 22 games. The only defeat was a 51 to 36 decision to Mansfield in the final tilt of the regular season.

Here are the squads the coaches expect to take to Toledo:

TRADE RUMORED ON BETWEEN DODGERS, CUBS FOR CATCHER

Rickey Said To Be Eyeing Cubs' Four Back Men To Help His One

By TED MEIER
NEW YORK, March 20—A trade is brewing between the Brooklyn Dodgers and the Chicago Cubs. Word came from the Bear Mountain camp of the Dodgers that President Branch Rickey was searching for a catcher to help Stan Andrews, the only backstopper the Dodgers possess.

Rickey, it was rumored, was eyeing the four catchers the Cubs have. As trading bait Rickey is said to have put French Bordagaray on the block.

Pitcher Whit Wyatt, who was hampered with a lame arm last season, appeared at Bear Mountain, but Rickey said that he, along with Pitcher Art Herring, is classified 2-C in the draft and will not be available for an indefinite period. Infielder Barney Koch and Pitcher Les Weber were listed as holdouts.

Other training camp briefs: Boston Red Sox—Five players still unsigned, among them star Pitcher Emmet O'Neill who wants more money.

Detroit Tigers—Third Sacker Pinky Higgins, 36 in May, due to take pre-induction physical exam on Thursday. His loss would seriously cripple the team.

St. Louis Browns—First Baseman George McQuinn signed contract. Pitcher Sig Jakucki reported his arm felt sore.

Pittsburgh Pirates—Third Baseman Bob Elliott, a 4-F whose third draft exam has been referred to Washington for final decision, was expected to report today.

Early Is Back
Boston Braves—Pitcher Tom Earley, recently discharged from Army, reported eager to resume where he left off in 1942.

St. Louis Cardinals—Blix Donnelly, World Series pitching star, was rejected by Army for 10th time. Mort Cooper, 20-game winner, signed contract, and Infielder Johnny Antonelli was classified 4-F.

New York Giants—Outfielder Danny Gasella suffered sprained ankle when he stepped into hole while chasing flies.

New York Yankees—Outfielder Johnny Lindell signed contract. Alen Gettel was termed likely prospect as starting pitcher.

Chicago White Sox—Bill Nagel, third baseman purchased from Milwaukee, reported. Shortstop Floyd Baker called up for draft re-exam at Youngstown March 26.

Philadelphia Phils—Southpaw Al Gerbeauer showed up at camp, but said he was still dissatisfied with contract. Pitcher Wilbur Reeser said he was returning to Reading, Pa., for war work.

Chicago Cubs—Pitcher Ed Hanyszewski was scheduled to test arm in practice game today. Shortstop Len Merullo reported.

Philadelphia A's—Russ Christopher, star twirler, reported 10 pounds underweight.

LEGISLATURE AT WORK ON BUDGET

Lausche Recommends Ohio Spend $425,069,663 In 1945-46

By E. E. EASTERLY

COLUMBUS, March 20.—The Ohio legislature, as keeper of the state government purse, today took up Gov. Frank J. Lausche's recommendation that it spend $425,069,663 in 1945-46.

The record-breaking budget proposes an increase of $56,286,065 over expenditures in 1943-44.

The figure does not include the local governments' share of the three per cent sales tax, a share which the governor asked be increased to $22,000,000 for the new biennium. This is $8,000,000 more than that received in the last two years.

Neither does the 425 millions include $20,000,000 which Lausche recommended be set aside for new highway construction after the war emergency, possibly next year.

Therefore, the proposed expenditures might be said to aggregate $477,069,663 and the proposed increase $84,286,065. That much of the taxpayer's money is involved in the budget, however, will be considered as $425 million by the legislature.

The document, prepared by a Republican finance director (H. D. Deffenbacher), was submitted by the Democratic governor last night at a joint session of the house and senate, which are controlled by Republicans.

Calls For Policy of Thrift

Gov. Lausche told the legislators that they and he owed it "to ourselves to exercise thrift in the use of the taxpayers' money"; that the cost of government would increase still further and after the war the state's income undoubtedly would be substantially reduced; that much maintenance, deferred because of the war, eventually would have to be performed; and that when Ohioans came out of the armed forces "we should be in a position to provide for them those things and rights to which they are justly entitled."

He said he had tried to practice thrift by making substantial reductions in departments' requests for money.

Of the $92,165,976 surplus which he inherited from the preceding Republican administration, Lausche advocated $32,500,000 be impounded for postwar emergencies; that $20,000,000 be set aside for building the new roads after the war, and that $19,665,900 be expended for capital

SPEEDY CONSTRUCTION MEANS SPEEDY ADVANCE

ONE OF THE BIGGEST REASONS for the rapid advance into Germany is the lightning-speed construction of pontoon bridges by the U. S. engineers. From little streams to the great Rhine, the might of Yank troops depends on the bridges set up for them by the in-front-of-the- "front" engineers. Here, a rising, swift-moving river adds to the complications of building under fire on the Sure river in Germany, but the GI construction crew extends their pneumatic span and traffic rolls on in chase of the Nazis. (International) improvements, such as new welfare and university buildings.

He cautioned that aside from a serious emergency none of the $19,665,900 be spent "until manpower material and equipment can be obtained without fierce and inflationary competition with private industry."

This sum would help finance a $54,645,000 program of additions and betterments, little of which can be undertaken until materials and manpower become available.

This program represents the greatest increase in the budget, totaling $24,864,000 more than was spent for capital improvements in 1934-44.

The United States is expected to enter the postwar period with a merchant marine surplus of at least 30 million tons.

OPTIMISM

"Why" One Wonders

All this raises the question "Why has production decreased?"

Not all products are declining in production. Notable exceptions are certain grains and milk.

But in the case of meat, butter, chickens, eggs, food fats and shortening and sugar supplies are going down.

The meat situation is attracting the most attention — and the bitterest complaints.

To get a picture of how and why the meat shortage came to pass, let's delve into the government's livestock production program.

At the outset of the war, the United States had an enormous reserve of grain, accumulated under the "ever-normal granary" program.

The government moved quickly to convert this grain into meat, milk, poultry, eggs and other livestock products by feeding it to animals. It spurred farmers with price guarantees and subsidized feed supplies.

Farmers responded — and how! Livestock production — particularly hogs — shot up so sharply that by the winter of 1943-44 the nation's markets and slaughtering facilities were unable to handle it. Permit tees to hold market-ready stock until room could be found for it at the markets.

This flood of hogs, coupled with a rising output of beef, was soon converted into a flood of meat — a flood that outstripped the rationing program, military needs, lend-lease requirements and cold storage facilities.

Inefficiency Noted

Faced with the possibility of losses through spoilage, the government took meat off the ration list in the spring of 1944.

Civilians splurged. It is estimated they consumed meat at a record annual rate of nearly 160 pounds a person during the first six or eight months of the year. They are now down to a rate of about 126 pounds. During the '30s they averaged about 135.

In producing this quick flow of hogs, the country depleted its grain reserves. This meant a sharp reduction in new livestock in 1944 — which is being felt now in a relative famine of pork.

Looking back, it is easy to see that probably the government's price incentives were too favorable. Less favorable incentives would perhaps still have brought on a flood of hogs but within limits of processing and storage facilities. This would have helped avert the feed shortage of 1944.

The government could have got more pounds of livestock products from the grain than it did. Its price incentive program encouraged farmers to feed hogs to extra heavy weights. A billion bushels of corn fed to hogs marketed at light or medium weights will provide more pork than the same amount of grain fed to hogs marketed at heavy weights.

Some idea of the inefficiency of the program may be gained from this official estimate: Twenty-five per cent more feed was used in 1943 than 1942, but output of livestock products increased only 13 per cent. (Tomorrow: The Surplus Hog.)

Judge Named President Of Treasurers' Group

Vincent Judge of Salem, who will become Columbiana county treasurer in September, was elected president of the Northeastern Ohio Treasurers' association at a meeting in Smithfield recently.

Victor Martelli of New Philadelphia was named vice president. The retiring president is Karl K. Kirk of Ashland.

Washington Round-up

News and Views, Briefly On What's Going On In Capital

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 20.—Republican demands for a one-man national food boss sounded on Capitol Hill today as Congress stepped into the picture of shortages.

"We have no partisan desire in this matter," said Chairman Jenkins of Ohio of the Republican congressional food study committee as he and other members of the group issued their call for centralized control.

It is the only way, they contended, to solve the problem of increasing food shortages and prevent greater ones from developing.

Chairman Thomas (D-Okla.) of the senate agriculture committee told a reporter he will meet with a special subcommittee this week to map action on an inquiry authorized yesterday by the senate. The group was given $5,000 to look into "production, processing, distribution, and transportation of food."

Promises Action

In the house, Chairman Sabath (D-Ill.) of the rules committee promised speedy consideration of three proposals for investigations. Rep. Anderson (D-NM) asked creation of a special committee to study black markets, lend-lease shipments and foreign needs, while Reps. Rees (R-Kans.) and Andrews (R-Minn.) proposed the agriculture committee be directed to make full inquiry of food supplies and demands.

Jenkins, asserting "we just want one man or agency put in charge of this mess," he added to a reporter: "War Food Administrator Marvin Jones would be a good man for the post. If we are going to continue to provide enough food someone must be given authority to act swiftly and efficiently."

Jenkins said the GOP food study group also favors more emphasis on production and less on "elaborate price schedules."

Napoleon once remarked that "an army can march anywhere and at any time of the year, wherever two men can place their feet." Well, nobody disputes that, but conditions have been such that while foot soldiers might get about the movement of vast quantities of heavy equipment has been a titanic job. Maybe the present good weather will dry up the ground.

The clear skies are being kind to the Allied air forces which have been grounded all too often in recent weeks. Yesterday more than 7,000 British and American warplanes were over the fighting front and the heart of the Reich ripping into Hitler's shattered war machine. Berlin has been under an almost steady and devastating aerial bombardment.

The Russians last night warned the German capital that the war for that city is in sight and that nothing "will hold off the Red army." The siege is virtually under way now. We are on the verge of one of the greatest dramas ever has produced—the siege of Berlin with its 5,500,000 people imprisoned in a shattered city and cut off from supplies.

LEGISLATURE AT WORK ON BUDGET

Lausche Recommends Ohio Spend $425,069,663 In 1945-46

By E. E. EASTERLY

COLUMBUS, March 20.—The Ohio legislature, as keeper of the state government purse, today took up Gov. Frank J. Lausche's recommendation that it spend $425,069,663 in 1945-46.

The record-breaking budget proposes an increase of $56,288,065 over expenditures in 1943-44.

The figure does not include the local governments' share of the three per cent sales tax, a share which the governor asked be increased to $32,000,000 for the new biennium. This is $8,000,000 more than they received in the last two years.

Neither does the 425 millions include $20,000,000 which Lausche recommended be set aside for new highway construction after the war emergency, possibly next year.

Therefore, the proposed expenditures might be said to aggregate $477,069,663 and the proposed increase $84,268,065. That much of the taxpayers' money is involved. The formal budget, however, will be considered as $425 million by the legislature.

The document, prepared by a Republican finance director (H. D. Defenbacher), was submitted by the Democratic governor last night at a joint session of the house and senate, which are controlled by Republicans.

Calls For Policy of Thrift

Gov. Lausche told the legislators that they and he owed it "to ourselves to exercise thrift in the use of the taxpayers' money"; that the cost of government would increase still further and after the war the state's income undoubtedly would be substantially reduced; that much maintenance, deferred because of the war, eventually would have to be performed; and that when Ohioans came out of the armed forces "we should be in a position to provide for them those things and rights to which they are justly entitled."

He said he had tried to practice thrift by making substantial reductions in departments' requests for money.

Of the $92,165,976 surplus which he inherited from the preceding Republican administration, Lausche advocated $52,500,000 be impounded for postwar emergencies; that $20,000,000 be set aside for building the new roads after the war, and that $19,665,900 be expended for capital improvements, such as new welfare and university buildings.

ONE OF THE BIGGEST REASONS for the rapid advance into Germany is the lightning-speed construction of pontoon bridges by the U. S. engineers. From little streams to the great Rhine, the might of Yank troops depends on the bridges set up for them by the in-front-of-the-“front” engineers. Here, a rising, swift-moving river adds to the complications of building under fire on the Sure river in Germany, but the GI construction crew extends their pneumatic span and traffic rolls on in chase of the Nazis. (International)

He cautioned that aside from a serious emergency none of the $19,665,900 be spent "until manpower material and equipment can be obtained without fierce and inflationary competition with private industry."

This sum would help finance a $54,645,000 program of additions and betterments, little of which can be undertaken until materials and manpower become available.

This program represents the greatest increase in the budget, totaling $24,864,000 more than was spent for capital improvements in 1934-44.

The United States is expected to enter the postwar period with a merchant marine surplus of at least 30 million tons.

OPTIMISM

2. Requirements for foreign relief and other export commitments have only lately come to the fore.

"Why" One Wonders

All this raises the question "Why has production decreased?"

Not all products are declining in production. Notable exceptions are cereal grains and milk.

But in the case of meat, butter, chickens, eggs, food fats and shortening and sugar supplies are going down.

The meat situation is attracting the most attention — and the bitterest complaints.

To get a picture of how and why the meat shortage came to pass, let's delve into the government's livestock production program.

At the outset of the war, the United States had an enormous reserve of grain, accumulated under the "ever-normal granary" program.

The government moved quickly to convert this grain into meat, milk, poultry, eggs and other livestock products by feeding it to animals. It spurred farmers with price guarantees and subsidized feed supplies.

Farmers responded — and how! Livestock production — particularly hogs — shot up so sharply that by the winter of 1943-44 the nation's markets and slaughtering facilities were unable to handle it. Permit systems were set up, requiring farmers to hold market-ready stock until room could be found for it at the markets.

This flood of hogs, coupled with a rising output of beef, was soon converted into a flood of meat — a flood that outstripped the rationing program, military needs, lend-lease requirements and cold storage facilities.

Inefficiency Noted

Faced with the possibility of losses through spoilage, the government took meat off the ration list in the spring of 1944.

Civilians splurged. It is estimated they consumed meat at a record annual rate of nearly 160 pounds a person during the first six or eight months of the year. They are now down to a rate of about 126 pounds. During the '30s they averaged about 135.

In producing this quick flow of hogs, the country depleted its grain reserves. This meant a sharp reduction in new livestock in 1944 — which is being felt now in a relative famine of pork.

Looking back, it is easy to see that probably the government's price incentives were too favorable. Less favorable incentives would perhaps still have brought on a flood of hogs but within limits of processing and storage facilities. This would have helped avert the feed shortage of 1944.

The government could have got more pounds of livestock products from the grain than it did. Its price incentive program encouraged farmers to feed hogs to extra heavy weights. A billion bushels of corn fed to hogs marketed at light or medium weights will provide more pork than the same amount of grain fed to hogs marketed at heavy weights.

Some idea of the inefficiency of the program may be gained from this official estimate: Twenty-five per cent more feed was used in 1943 than 1942, but output of livestock products increased only 13 per cent. (Tomorrow: The Surplus Hog)

Maybe the present good weather will dry up the ground.

The clear skies are being kind to the Allied air forces which have been grounded all too often in recent weeks. Yesterday more than 7,000 British and American warplanes were over the fighting front and the heart of the Reich, ripping into Hitler's shattered war machine. Berlin has been under almost steady and devastating aerial bombardment.

The Russians last night warned the German capital that the battle for that city is in sight and that nothing "will hold off the Red army." The siege is virtually unassailable now. We are on the verge of one of the greatest dramas war ever has produced—the siege of Berlin with its 5,500,000 people imprisoned in a shattered city and cut off from supplies.
